Professional Summary

Content professional and team lead with a background in Industrial Design and experience across content strategy, digital performance analysis, and cross-functional collaboration. I approach problems through a user-centered lens, connecting audience needs, business goals, and data to identify opportunities and shape practical solutions. Currently building hands-on experience in Product Discovery, UX, and product requirement definition.

Selected Product & Digital Projects

PRODUCT DISCOVERY · ONGOING

NetBox — Exploring a Community-driven Content Hub

Exploring opportunities to expand NetBox beyond editorial content into a broader content discovery experience, informed by user preferences, participation, ratings, and community contributions.

- Benchmarked products such as IMDb, Rotten Tomatoes, and Tiwall to understand rating, review, and discovery patterns.
- Compared product features and user experiences to identify relevant opportunity areas.
- Contributed to early product recommendations and requirement discussions to support next-step decisions.
